His Old Masters Audacity

Jourdon Anderson kept his dignity in-tact when writing back to his old master. For example, "At twenty-five dollars a month for me, and two dollars a week for Mandy, our earnings would amount to eleven thousand six hundred and eighty dollars." Para 3. .He knew his and his wife's self-worth, as he would only go back to his old master if he and his wife were paid back for what they worked for. In addition his master, Colonel P.H. Anderson had the audacity to ask Jourdan back with the promise of freedom over there is outrageous. As stated in paragraph 5, "Say howdy to George Carter, and thank him for taking the pistol from you when you were shooting at me.". This example shows the irony of his old master asking for him back after shooting at him for leaving. But in the end this also shows Jourdan knowing his self-worth, and not only obviously declining his offer to ever go back, but poking a bit of fun at his old master for asking such an outrageous question after all he's put Jourdan and his family through.
